General Boat Description

Offered here is an exceptionally well-equipped Aspen C107, a boat that redefines what a 34-foot power cat can do. Designed with Aspen's signature asymmetrical hulls and power, the C107 delivers remarkable efficiency, a soft ride, and confident handling in conditions that send conventional boats looking for shelter.

Not only were we running flat and surprisingly stable in the 15-knot breeze and a decent chop in Rosario Strait off Anacortes, but at a speed of 20 knots we were travelling 1.75 miles for every gallon (3.8 litres) of gas burned—a very impressive figure. Those attributes—stability and excellent fuel efficiency—are among the reasons for the huge success of Larry Graf's Aspen Power Catamarans.

This particular C107 is heavily outfitted for both serious fishing and comfortable cruising, making it equally at home chasing tuna offshore or slipping away for a long weekend. Fishing features include a robust cockpit layout, ample rod storage, quality electronics, and thoughtful deck hardware that keeps lines clear and anglers happy. When it's time to transition from lines-in to laid-back, the boat does so effortlessly.

The cruising amenities are equally impressive. A protected helm, comfortable seating, and quiet ride make long days on the water a pleasure rather than a chore. Below, the cabin offers smart use of space with a welcoming berth, enclosed head, and practical galley arrangements that support extended time aboard. Fit and finish throughout reflect Aspen's reputation for building boats that age gracefully and work hard.

Powered by Aspen's optimally paired engines, this C107 cruises efficiently, sips fuel, and provides redundancy and peace of mind. Professionally maintained and thoughtfully optioned, this is a rare opportunity to acquire a turn-key Aspen C107 that truly does it all.

Whether your weekends revolve around fish reports or favorite anchorages, this C107 is ready to deliver.
